The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Birckhead of St. George's Church, New York, and the Rev. John Huske, rector of St. George's, Newburg. The surpliced choir of St. George's Church, New York, rendered the musical part of the service.

The flower girl was Miss Margaret Burton, youngest sister of the bride, and the maid of honor Miss Catharine S. Burton, another sister. The bridesmaids were the Misses Louise Freeman, Louise Vanderbilt, E. Rosalind Romeyn, Dorothy Ruxton, and Miss Florence Burton.

The bride was gowned in white satin and old lace en train. A veil of tulle was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a brooch of diamonds, the gift of the bridegroom.

The bridesmaids and the maid of honor wore Pompadour silk, Louis XIV. skirt coats, with green taffeta hats, black tulle over lace, trimmed with apple blossoms and green ribbons. Each carried a green parasol with tortoise shell handle, the gift of the bride. The flower girl was attired in white chiffon, with a green sash, and a white lace hat trimmed with apple blossoms.

The reception was held at Woodbine, the Burton place near Balmville. The wedding breakfast was served on the lawn overlooking the Hudson River.
